

Your file is an EPUB.

Not a PDF. It opens on every device you own, and on most of them without installing anything.

An EPUB is a reflowable ebook file. The text resizes and rewraps to fit whatever screen it is on, so it stays comfortable on a phone, a tablet, a laptop or a Kindle, at whatever type size suits your eyes. Find the method below that matches your device.

OPEN IT ON YOUR DEVICE

WINDOWS PC

Open the file with a free reader like Thorium or Calibre. Or upload it to Google Play Books at play.google.com/books and read it in your browser with nothing installed.

MAC

Double-click the file. It opens in Apple Books, which is already on your Mac, and syncs to your iPhone and iPad on its own.

IPHONE & IPAD

Tap the file, then tap the share icon and choose Books. It lands in your Apple Books library and stays there.

ANDROID

Open the Google Play Books app, go to Library, tap Upload files and pick the EPUB. Free readers such as Moon+ Reader or Lithium work just as well.

KINDLE

Go to amazon.com/sendtokindle, sign in, and drag the file in. It appears on your Kindle and in the Kindle app within a few minutes. You can also email it to your @kindle.com address, as long as you send from an address on your Approved Personal Document E-mail List. Copying the file across by USB will not work, it has to go through Send to Kindle.

IF SOMETHING GOES WRONG

- The file arrived as a .zip. Some browsers do that on the way down. Rename the extension back to .epub and it will open normally.
- You cannot find it after downloading. Look in your Downloads folder, or open your browser's download list and choose Show in folder.
- Nothing showed up on your Kindle. Delivery takes a few minutes. If it still has not arrived, check that the address you sent from is on your approved list under Manage Your Content and Devices in your Amazon account.
